

Dress Accessories Including the Cravat

You know how necessary the neat cravat is; it's the most conspicuous part of any man's costume, and should have your undivided attention. A new shipment of Velvet Cravats direct from New York is now waiting for you to see them and learn how good they are. 50c is rather a small price; you'd think they were worth twice as much.

HOLD CELEBRATION OF GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. D. D. WHALEY ENTERTAINING MORE THAN SIXTY GUESTS.

PIONEERS IN COUNTY

Three Living Children Ail Present— Couple Were Married in City Of Janesville.

More than sixty guests were present today at the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Whaley residing at 820 Prairie avenue. Many relatives and friends who were not able to attend sent their congratulations and the hosts were the recipients of many valuable gifts. Autumn leaves were used with artistic effect in the decoration of the home, presenting a beautiful harmony of the variegated shades of yellow, red and brown. When the guests were seated at the table they were pleasantly surprised to find as place cards, photographs of Mr. and Mrs. Whaley taken on their wedding day, in the year 1863. The three living children of the aged couple were present and nearly all of the guests were relatives. The children are: O. J. Whaley, 28 Ring old street; T. G. Whaley, 820 Prairie avenue; E. W. Whaley, 1032 Oak street, Beloit, Wisconsin. They are residing on a farm three miles east of Evansville. He remained there until his marriage to Miss Harriet A. Speer, in 1863, when twenty years of age. Miss Harriet A. Speer, was born in Saline, Michigan, moving to Wisconsin when six years old, in the year of 1852. Her parents resided on a farm in the town of Porter, on the town line between Rock and Dane counties, the farm being owned at the present time by the Speer family. When seventeen years of age she was united in marriage to D. D. Whaley. The ceremony was performed in the private parlors at the Park hotel, then called the Schuyler house. The Rev. E. J. Goodspeed, of the First Baptist church, officiating at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Whaley resided on farms near Janesville until 1870 when they moved to Evansville. Mr. Whaley being employed in the Lehman furniture factory for seven years as a wood turner. During their residence at Evansville, Mr. Whaley also worked at the carpenter trade, helping in the construction of the Smith and Bager homes which today are the landmarks of the village. In 1884 he built himself a home on Lincoln street, in Evansville, and was engaged in the carpenter trade, which position he resigned in 1890, when he moved to Janesville taking up employment in the Hanson Furniture factory, working there for a period of twelve years. Mr. Whaley then accepted a position at the Jeffries planing mill, working there four years. Despite his age, he is now working full time running a staple machine at the Barb Wire factory.

FIRST ENROLLMENT FOR NIGHT SCHOOL

ADULTS DESIRING TO ENTER CLASSES MAY REGISTER AT HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT.

OFFER NOVEL COURSES

Men and women over sixteen years of age who are contemplating registration in the night school, will be given their first opportunity for enrollment at the high school building between the hours of seven and nine o'clock this evening. Names of prospective students will also be received on Saturday and Monday nights, and the school will open on Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, for the season's instruction. Principal C. F. Hill is enthusiastic over the prospects for the work this season. "We expect to interest a much larger number of persons in the various lines of study this year than last," he declared today, "and some very attractive courses have been outlined."

While there will be a larger percentage of young persons taking up the work, there will also be many who are well toward middle age who will enjoy the studies. Our instruction will give each student enrolled personal attention and the work will be made practical in every respect as well as thorough. Several novel courses are planned this year which are likely to appeal to tradesmen and artisans without regard to age. Among these is the blue-print reading class in which some twelve and fifteen local carpenters are already enrolled. Mr. Hill has just received a series of blue-prints devised by himself which will be used in this class. They begin with the simplest drawings and will undoubtedly be most instructive. This class will be entirely separate from the mechanics' drawings and wood-turning classes.

"I am anxious to organize a craftmen's club," said Mr. Hill in discussing the various phases of the carpentry and cabinetmaking work which will be taken up during the winter. "I should like to have a dozen or more men who are interested in making practical things for house hold use who can work together for mutual advantage. These clubs have proved most successful in other cities and I hope to see the same success repeated here."

Of course there is the class in electrical appliances and gasoline engines, under the direction of Prof. Armbroth which will attract a large number of persons of the engineering bent. For the girls and young women the classes in cooking, plain sewing, dressmaking and millinery will again be popular. Attention is especially called to the class which will be devoted to the study and making of children's clothes. Clothes for babies and clothes for larger children will receive a proportionate amount of attention. An attraction for young men will be the course in citizenship and public speaking under the direction of J. T. Shearor, assistant principal of the high school. Mr. Shearor is interested in this line of work and some of the pressing civic problems of the day will be given practical consideration. It will be a club class open to free discussion with helpful lectures and suggestions. Parliamentary practice will also receive attention. There are also the courses in shorthand and bookkeeping which will be well filled. Another course which may be started if enough persons are interested is conversational French in which the language will be studied with view to speaking it. Persons interested in these courses are urged to see Principal Hill at the high school on any of the enrollment nights.

A. V. Lyle who has had twenty-five years' experience in telegraphy work, will have charge of a class in this subject at the night school. It is expected that a large number of young persons interested in railroading will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity. Never before in this city has it been possible to secure instructions in this subject in the city schools.

CANAL ZONE SLAYER IS AWARDED PARDON

Panama, Oct. 10.—J. Frank Houston, who, last February, killed his fellow-workman, Harry Story, whom he accused of ruining his home, will be given his freedom tomorrow, after having spent nine months in prison. His release is the result of a pardon granted him by the Department of Civil Administration in the Canal Zone upon order of Col. Goethals. The trial judges condemned Houston to ten years in prison. At the time the public was greatly incensed because he was not given a jury trial, and the action of Col. Goethals in freeing Houston has caused great satisfaction among all classes here.

FRIDAY. AND THEN JINKS HAD TO GIVE UP HIS FEAST.

SPORT Snap-Shots

A ball team if it ever hopes to cop off any honors must give the game a little thought elsewhere than merely on the diamond. There is quite a little bit more to the game than the physical labor of it alone, and the Cincinnati Reds are a pretty good example of this. A sort of horrible example they are to other ball teams that are anxious to abide elsewhere than in the bottom booth. The big reason for the Reds' ability to make any sort of a showing in the National league race is said to have been the fact that they never gave a thought after they left the ball park. The Reds' line-up looks good on paper. They have some very speedy and efficient baseball talent on their payroll and it seems strange that such a team should make such a miserable showing. But the whole trouble is said to be that once the game is over the most of them forget the diamond and lose themselves in other interests. Of course Joe Tinker would occasionally get the boys together for a talk and they would pay him earnest heed and carry out his instructions on the field. But very seldom do the players themselves make any suggestions. The successful teams, the ones that in history past, have won pennants have been those whose members were always eager to talk the dove, to frame up new tricks and give the game a little thought and brain work. And if the Reds ever plan to make a real fight for the rag they will have to learn to use their heads.

Johnny McGraw declares that

"Smiling Al" Demaree is, in his opinion, next to Mathewson, the brainiest and brightest pitcher in the game. "For a youngster," says Jawn, "he's one of the smartest I ever saw. Many a rookie twirler I've seen come and go, but never did I see one with so little experience who seemed to know so much about pitching. I really believe that among all the pitchers today he ranks next to Matty in this regard. This summer when our bunch was going none too well, Demaree won twelve out of thirteen games, and most of them at a very critical stage of the race. Young as he is, I have the greatest confidence in him." Which is quite a bit for McGraw to say about any player, and Demaree must merit the praise.

The Londoners don't care a hang about seeing Jack Johnson perform in the ring and they don't care if he knows it either. London promoters have thoroughly canvassed the situation and find that there is no great admiration for "Big Boy" around London sporting circles and that the proposition to put on a fight between Johnson and some American or English "hope" arouses no very great interest. The big smoke, it seems, is becoming more "persona non grata" every day.

Will George Stovall, the deposed manager of the St. Louis Browns, quit the game for good? Stovall has been pursued by several major league teams who are anxious to sign him up among them the Yankees, but at present it is doubtful whether he will ever play again. At present he is suffering from a growth in the palm of his hand, the result of a partial paralysis of the nerves. And it is feared that if he operates on the nerves of the hand it will be weakened so as to impair Stovall's ability to throw or grasp his bat. He continues to work out with the rookies, however, at the Brown park, not that he cares for the exercise of it, but George is anxious to protect his contract which calls for full pay till the end of the season, and he isn't taking any chances.

LOCALS WILL WIN TOMORROW--CURTIS

Mentor More Confident Than Ever As Eleven Is Whipped Into Shape, After Hot Scrimmage.

That the Janesville high school football eleven will down Freeport in the second game of the season at the latter place tomorrow, is the final statement of Coach Curtis. He proved to be completely satisfied at the loss of yesterday's practice, at which time he sent his first charges against the scrubs, in a stiff grind. Atwood seemed to work the best he has this year as did Dearborn at right half. Dalton plowed the opposing line for long gains almost at will. Hayes ran the team without an error, and the line held. That is enough to encourage any student or coach, and Coach Curtis wore a smile of satisfaction last evening, realizing that the local high school would turn out a title team yet this year, if the men can stay up in their studies.

The team will leave over the Northwestern road at about eight in the morning, and will return late in the evening over the Interurban route. Several are planning to make the trip with the men, and a rousing sendoff has already been planned by the student body. To following men will make the trip: Smiley and Robert, I. E.; Hemming, I. T.; Barnes, I. G.; Mout, C.; Rau, R. G.; Jones and McVicar, R. L.; Stewart, R. E.; Hayes, C. B.; Atwood, H. H.; Dearborn, R. H.; and Dalton, I. B. Coach Curtis and Manager Ferguson will accompany the squad.

UHLAN GETS RECORD TROTTERING WITH MATE

Trots Mile in 1:54 1/2 at Lexington in Last Public Exhibition.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10.—Uhlman, king of harness horses, trotted a mile with a running mate in 1:54 1/2, the best previous mark at its ability being the 2:03 of Ayres P. made in 1893.

It was Uhlman's final public appearance, although until the trial was over that fact was known only to C. K. G. Billings, owner of the horse.

"Right now Uhlman has done much more than any other horse ever accomplished," according to Billings. "He has trotted the fastest mile in harness, 1:58, and gone more public miles in 2:05 or better than any other trotter. His wagon record of 2:00 equal that of Lou Dillon. This week he has trotted the fastest quarter ever seen in 0:27, and has beaten the best previous mile by a trotter with running mate by eight and one-half seconds.

Furthermore, he has the world's trotting record of a half mile track, 2:02 3/4 a half mile record of 56 1/2 to wagon, and has trotted three-quarters of a mile faster than any other horse."

UHLAN WILL NOW BE RETIRED FROM RACE TRACK WORK

He will be taken to New York and will later be used as Mr. Billings' saddle horse.

POSTPONE MATINEE TO TUESDAY NEXT

Condition of Track Following Heavy Rain Last Night Makes Racing Impossible.

Rain falling early today heavily and persistently interfered with the final matinee scheduled at the driving park race course this afternoon, making necessary a postponement until next Tuesday afternoon, October 14.

Several of the park association directors visited the track this morning. They noted the lack of vigorous sunshine, the lightness of the breeze and the soggy condition of the course, and lost little time in coming to a decision.

After interviewing owners of the fast animals entered in today's card the directors were pleased to learn that all would be willing to keep their favorites in training until next Tuesday and will offer the same program of events upon the same conditions as had been planned for today.

Hand bills and advertising matter will be distributed tomorrow and Monday in various cities and villages of the county.

The directors and not a few track fans were disappointed at the unfortunate turn of affairs made necessary as result of the weather. They are confident that the races will draw just as well on Tuesday, however, and expect to see a record-breaking crowd.

THIRTEEN INNINGS FOR CUBS TO WIN

Coolness of Big Jim Vaughn is Factor in Trojan Victory Thursday.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 10.—In a thrilling thirteen inning battle the Chicago National made the standing in the Chicago championship series 1 and 1 Thursday afternoon, downing the American leaguers, 6 to 5, before 29,368 persons. The victory of the Cubs was due mainly to the coolness of Big Jim Vaughn, who refused to give way before the vigorous attack of the south siders.

The game was a ragged one. Though Cicotte was hammered hard, he might have lasted if poor playing back of him had not been bunched in the fourth round—a disastrous inning for the White Sox. In that inning Chappell, whose timely hit in the eighth pushed Chase over with the tying run, let lose a wild throw that struck the grandstand. Schalk muffed a throw from Lord that let in a run, and Bodie later dealing an opportune single, misjudged Archer's short fly so badly that two runs counted on the hit and the Cub catcher drew up at second. Singles by Evers and Schulte and a safe bunt by Zimmerman had opened the inning which ended only after the west siders scored four runs. Benz succeeded Cicotte in the fifth after Leach's safe drive, a pass to Evers and Schulte's hit scored the first named, and after that pitched a great game until the thirteenth. Then Zimmerman singled, Saier walked, Good fled out and Brivell was passed. With the bases full, Archer shot a drive into left and Zimmerman counted the winning run, Saier being caught at the plate on the throw in. The Sox bunched six hits in the fourth for three runs. Evers' fumble gave Bodie a life in the sixth and Collins hit and two infield outs gave the American leaguers their fourth run. They tied the score in the eighth. Chase opened the round with a single and Bodie laid down a perfect sacrifice. Collins' fly to Leach was too short to help, but Chappell drove out his needed hit and Chase crossed the plate. The score:

Kelly and Gibbons get even break at Kenosha

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 10.—Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Spike Kelly of Chicago hammered each other on even terms in the Kenosha arena Thursday night. Gibbons was the popular man with the crowd but Kelly gave him the hardest fight of his career and there were a lot of men in the Chicago delegation who insisted Kelly was entitled to the popular verdict. Kelly's blows lacked steam, and while in the closing rounds of the fight he hit more blows than Gibbons. Gibbons' advantage in the earlier rounds made it about an even fight. Gibbons came back strong in the tenth and his showing in this round earned him an even break.

THEN AND NOW.

October 4, 1894, and August 27, 1894, will be distinguished in history as the only two dates within nearly three-quarters of a century when low tariff measures went into effect in the United States. Times are now so utterly different from those of 1894 that the contrast is almost unbelievable. Our standards of living, of production and of prosperity have swelled so greatly that a degree of well-being which would now have seemed magnificent, would now appear almost disastrous.

To bring out this contrast, some of the statistics of our leading industries are here reduced to a per capita basis. It is almost astonishing, for example, that the poor crops which we are now lamenting amount to about $61.38 per capita against $49.26 in 1894.

Since 1894 the character of our industries has largely changed. Our exports of manufactured products then amounted to $3 per capita, whereas for the year ended June 30, 1913, they were $12.16 per capita. During the current calendar year our manufacturing industries will add to the value of the raw materials which they use a sum equal to about $107.60 per capita of total population against $73 in 1894.

So greatly has the transportation industry grown that our railroads have received $37.32 per capita of population this year against $15.87 then. We now consume either for personal or business use 5.38 tons of coal apiece, as compared with 2.25 tons when the Wilson bill went into effect. Our per capita output of steel has increased from 130 pounds to 634 pounds.

In this short interim of only nineteen years our stock of gold has grown from about $500,000,000, which was then hidden away where Gresham's law couldn't get at it, to $1,300,000,000, which is now in the banks and the pockets of the people doing active service. In 1894 the security markets were so bad that our industries were able to raise only about $5.54 of new capital per capita, and this year the total will be close to $19, while our bank deposits per capita have more than doubled.

These comparisons, brought out by the Wall Street Journal, are significant because they speak volumes for the rapid development of the country, and the material wealth accumulated, which fortifies it against disaster.

The panic which followed tariff reduction in 1893, was at its worst in the summer of 1894, and the nation was slow to recover from reverses which bankrupted many industries, and placed seventy-three American railroads in the hands of receivers.

The large of twenty years has transformed many of our infant industries, and today they are stalwart representatives of the nation's strength. The tariff, restored by the republican party during the McKinley administration, accomplished its purpose, and under its wise provisions, the nation has prospered, as never before.

The fact has long been recognized that prosperity is more demoralizing than adversity, and so a spirit of unrest has possessed us as a people. The tariff has been held responsible for the unequal distribution of wealth to such an extent that popular sentiment finally culminated in a demand for radical reduction.

The new tariff schedule is the result of this demand, and it is fortunate for the country that we are better prepared to meet it than in 1894.

THE COUPON COLLECTOR.

John D. Rockefeller has the largest art collection in the world in spite of the notoriety that has been given to the late J. P. Morgan's collection and other private and public collections. Rockefeller's art has, however, been toward copper plate or steel engravings, and though it is by far the largest single collection it needs no special art gallery to accommodate it although special provision is made for it in an underground deposit vault on lower Broadway.

The largest part of this collection is worth about $15 a square inch, and the beauty of it is that interest can be collected on the purchase cost. In fact, this interest is collected regularly by presentation of coupons attached to each engraving. The Rockefeller collection is so vast that it requires three men working six hours a day for two weeks of every month to clip and enter up these coupons for presentation when due.

On September 2, the total of these amounted to about $2,000,000, and it is said this is a light month. Some months the total runs up to over $4,000,000. Nor do these figures take account of numberless other engravings of similar appearance on which interest is paid by check. Mr. Rockefeller has some Standard Oil engravings which bring him in sometimes over $26,000,000 a year. These particular engravings may be worth anywhere from $1,000 to $100,000 a square inch.

A financial exchange thus describes Mr. Rockefeller's choice art collection. Unlike any other exhibit in this line it represents an earning value. Paintings and curios do not appeal to the oil king, but anything that makes a noise like a dividend attracts him.

The first annual report of Wisconsin's superintendent of industrial schools shows that last year about 12,000 persons received instruction in the continuation schools. 6,000 in the day sessions for children between the ages of 14 and 16, and 6,000 in the evening schools for adults. The cost of the continuation schools was low, averaging $10 per pupil, as against an average cost of $30 for each elementary and $75 for each high school pupil.

The state, which pays part of the expenses of these schools, has recognized their success, and the legislature of 1913 increased the appropriation for state aid from $35,000 for thirty schools to $150,000 for forty-five schools. The management of the schools is not entirely vested in professional educators, but is divided between them and local continuation school boards, composed of practical men who know the needs of industrialism.

MODERN PREACHING WEAK FOR ABSENCE EVANGELISTIC NOTE

Thought Presented by the Rev. E. C. Coon of Evansville to County Ministerial Association.

That the great weakness of present-day preaching is the absence of the evangelistic note was the thought presented by the Rev. E. C. Coon in his paper on "Modern Evangelism," presented to the members of the Rock County Ministerial Association which held its semi-annual meeting at the Park hotel today. The first number on the program was the paper of the Rev. Coon and it was followed by a discussion in which all eleven men present participated.

"Evangelism includes everything that can bring men to Christ and of education everything that can build men up in Christ," said the speaker in opening his remarks. "Evangelism is essential to education and education to evangelism. Both need emphasis but neither to the exclusion of the other."

"I have been losing confidence in the effectiveness of services conducted by a special evangelist and gaining faith in the possibilities of persistent, sustained, and careful evangelism on the part of the pastor. The great weakness of the average minister's preaching is the absence of the evangelistic note. This should not be sounded periodically but continually in every sermon fifty-two Sundays in the year. It should be sounded in his other activities in the Sunday school and the brotherhood meetings. The only reason for the existence of the church is to bring men and women to Christ. If it is not successful in this effort it is a spiritual failure in the sight of God. When we have women to God we must hold them to God. This is the function of Christian education."

The sentiment expressed by the pastors who participated in the discussion that followed was that the old time evangelism as obsolete and unworkable in many, if not most churches, that the present is a transition period in which the evangelistic methods, more efficient and with a wider appeal are being evolved. The thought is growing that the pastor should be his own evangelist, and that conscience can be reached and more effectively in the modern age by appealing to the intellect rather than emphasizing the emotional appeal.

The Rev. White of Beloit stated that he was not willing to declare the old methods of evangelism obsolete until new methods had been tried in their place. One reason for their present failure was the want of the old congregations. If the clergyman had the passions of their fathers for the cause of Christ, they would find a way to evolve new ways of evangelism.

The Rev. Dr. Beaton did not believe that modern preaching had lost the evangelistic note. But he said that the emphasis had been shifted to the educational method. The most effective preachers of the days are those who have adopted educational methods. Evered, who sounded the evangelistic note most forcibly, as did Dwight L. Moody, have left their deepest impression in education, as the Moody Institute bears witness.

L. C. Markham, Y. M. C. A. secretary for Rock county, in a short talk explained to the clergyman the nature of his work and its purposes. The idea is to work with boys rather than with men, to develop and train leaders in each community. These leaders must be with the boys once a week, at the homes, churches, halls, or other convenient places. In addition to athletic contests there is Bible study, debating and some serious study, the latter being chosen with regard to the needs of the community. Three groups have been organized at Edgerton, one at Milton Junction, and one will be organized at Rock Prairie this evening. In each of the county organizations will soon be perfected.

VICTORY TO SOPHOMORES IN VARSITY CLASS RUSH

Sophomores Ignore Police Orders and March to Capitol But No Disorders Result.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 10.—The sophomores were pronounced the victors in yesterday's class rush, the annual struggle to mark the beginning of class spirit at the state university. With the sound of the pistol the second year men swooped down upon the fourteen sacks in the middle of the field and gathered in the majority before the freshmen were on the job.

Then ensued the more spectacular part—tearing off skirts. This occupied the students for fifteen minutes, at the end of which the field was strewn with remnants enough to start a bargain sale. Throughout the battle the moving picture camera ground out film.

The victorious sophs ignored police orders and marched up town to the capitol. No disorder accompanied the rush or parade. The freshmen outnumbered the second year men, but the swift tactics of the latter overcame this handicap. It is estimated that 10,000 persons saw the campus struggle.

LOCAL MARKETS.

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 10, 1913.

Eggs have raised in price and are now bringing twenty-eight cents and at that soaring mark the dealers are finding hard work to find supply enough to meet the demand. Butter still remains at the thirty-six cent mark and the dealers can promise no relief from the high prices. Sweet potatoes have been in great demand during the past two weeks and are selling at six and eight pounds for a quarter. The Jersey variety bringing more than the Virginia. Excellent celery has been shipped in and the tender stalks are selling briskly. Canning pears are bringing a dollar and a half a bushel and their quality is very fine.

Vegetables—Potatoes, $1.00 a bushel; new cabbage, 4c lb; lettuce 10c head; carrots, 5c bunch; beets, 5c bunch; Texas onions, 5c lb; green onions, 2c bunch; celery, 5c bunch; and 3c bunch; pieplant 5c lb; tomatoes, 2c to 5c lb; pineapples, 10¢@15¢ each; cucumbers 2 and 3 for 15c; spinach 3c lb; celery 5c, 3 for 10; parsnips, 3c lb; carrots, 2c bunch.

Fruit—Oranges 50c@60c, dozen; bananas, 15c@25c a dozen; lemons, 10c a dozen; watermelons, 20c@25c; canteloupes, 2 and 3 for 25c; plums, 15c; pears 30¢@40¢, $1.50 bushel; Colorado grapes, $1.10 box; Michigan $2.25 bu; grapes, 25¢@30¢ basket.

CATHOLICS OF NORTHWEST CELEBRATE CENTENNIAL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 10.—Under the auspices of the Gonzaga University of this city an interesting celebration was held today in honor of the golden jubilee of the planting of the Catholic faith in this section of the country. The central figure in the celebration was the venerable Father Joseph Caruana, the first Catholic missionary among the Indians of the Pacific Northwest, and recognized as the founder of the Catholic faith in what was then known as Oregon. It was fifty years ago today that Father Caruana baptized seventy-five Indian children, members of the Coeur d'Alene tribe, the baptism being held on the site now occupied by the Northern Pacific railway's passenger station in this city.

INSTRUCTIONS REACH LOCAL POSTMASTER

Instructions reach... Parcel Post Articles Must be Properly Packed in Future.—Special Attention to Umbrellas.

Postmaster Valentine has received new instructions regarding the packing of all parcel post articles. All parcels must be firmly packed before they can be shipped, is the substance of the new order from Washington.

Special attention is called to umbrellas, canes, golf sticks and similar articles. These commodities must in all cases be packed between strips of wood, so that when they come in contact with something heavier, little chance for breaking is possible.

Various complaints have reached the department of the breakage of materials sent through the parcel post system, which have not been packed firm enough. So to remedy this, postmasters at all cities are urged to refuse sending any parcels which have not been properly packed for safe shipment.

Also, whenever a parcel is found to be open or destroyed in some way, at the time it reaches its destination, the person responsible for its acceptance in that condition will be held for the damage.

EXCELLENT PROGRAM GIVEN AT CONCERT

First of Series of Concerts at Presbyterian Church Delights Audience.

An entertainment that was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience was given at the First Presbyterian church last evening by the C. W. Best concert company. This is the first of the series of concerts given under the auspices of the Young Men's club of the church, and judging from last evening's performance, the remaining numbers promise to be a great success.

James Edwards was a reader of no mean ability and delighted her audience with five selections, the best among them being, "A City of the Old Block," "The Perfect Tribute," involving Lincoln and his famous address at the battlefield of Gettysburg and a cleverly acted piece, "Jane of Old Kentucky." Miss Mabel Rogers, harpist, created something of a sensation among the audience for her playing was masterly and beautiful. Her playing of the first selection, "Fantasia," was one of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening.

Master Stuart McCombs astounded the audience by his clear soprano voice and each time he was rewarded with generous applause. The seventh and final number of the program, "Her Protector," a colonial sketch with harp and solo by Master McCombs was well given and keenly appreciated.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

No Services Sunday: There will be no services in St. John's Lutheran church Sunday because of the absence of the pastor, the Rev. W. S. Fuchs. He is today for Elkport, Iowa, called there by the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bels. Mrs. Fuchs has been at her mother's bedside for some time. The funeral will be held at Elkport Sunday.

Granite Avenue: Fine crushed granite to be used with asphalt in surfacing the asphalt macadam pavement to be laid on South Division street between St. Lawrence and Oakland avenues, has arrived and will be applied as soon as possible.

BADLY HURT TODAY AT SUGAR FACTORY

W. I. Lovelace Breaks Two Bones in Arm and Injured Shoulder.

Shortly before three this morning, while catching one of the machines in the centrifuge department of the Rock County Sugar Company, W. I. Lovelace 13 Division street, foreman of this department, had two bones in his left arm broken, and injured his shoulder badly when a hose attached to the machine, accidentally broke in some manner his arm was caught with the hose in such a way, as to twist it with a jerk. He received several bruises about the head, his right temple receiving quite a crack, but not high enough to injure his eye.

He was taken to the hospital where his injuries were attended to. The two bones which were broken were completely severed from the arm and one of them was broken twice.

ARREST MAN CHARGED WITH UNLAWFUL SALE

William Wearie, wanted in Juneau, Dodge county, to answer to a charge of selling a piece of mortgaged property, was arrested in a saloon here today by a Dodge county deputy sheriff and will be returned to Juneau this evening. Wearie was working at the sugar factory under an assumed name. He had been traced to this city from Stoughton. When arrested he was intoxicated and had on his person more than three pints of whiskey in four bottles.

Christian Science Lecture Sunday Afternoon At Church Edifice.

The semi-annual lecture under the auspices of the local Christian Science Church will be given in the church edifice, corner of Pleasant and South High streets, this city, on Sunday afternoon, October the 12th, commencing at 3:15 o'clock.

Mr. Bliss Knapp, C. S. B. of Brookline, Mass., member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., will be the speaker. His subject will be "Christian Science, Its religious and healing elements." The lecture is free and all persons interested in Christian Science are cordially invited to attend.

IF YOU SHOULD DIE TOMORROW

would the property you have accumulated by painstaking effort be carefully invested by your heirs? Would they have sufficient judgment and experience to follow changing conditions? Would they be likely to risk the principal in an endeavor to earn a high rate of interest, or would they obtain security by sacrificing income?

A safe solution of all these questions can be had by appointing a responsible trust company executor and trustee under your will.

We are qualified by wide experience to act in these capacities and are willing to do so at a very moderate cost to your estate.

Wilson Presses Button Today Blasting Gamboa Dike; Removes Last Big Obstruction In the Panama Canal

HERE'S PANAMA CANAL, ALMOST READY FOR THE BIG SHIPS

To look at the accompanying picture, one would think the Panama canal finished. The embankments that flank the channel, the broad even expanse of water, and the Miraflores locks in the distance are just as they will be when the opening of the canal takes place next month. This is the first picture to reach this country showing how the canal will look when it becomes a highway of commerce.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 10.—Exactly at two o'clock, eastern time, this afternoon, President Wilson pressed a button in the White House which sent an electric current flashing more than 4,000 miles overland and under seas to blow up the Gamboa Dike in the Panama canal and remove the last practical obstacle in the great inter-oceanic waterways. The accomplishment was in every way successful.

Not Actual Union.
The Atlantic and Pacific oceans were not actually united today when the Gamboa dike was destroyed and the waters of Gatun Lake were allowed to flow into Culebra Cut, as Lake and Cut are at the normal surface of the water 55 feet above the level of the sea.

The destruction of the Gamboa Dike, however, removes the last obstruction to the navigation of the greater part of the canal by light draft vessels, and opens up direct connections between the great Gatun Lake which already is practically ready to discharge vessels into the Atlantic through Gatun Locks and the Pacific division. The waters of the lake rushing through the broken dike at Gamboa sweep through Culebra cut until they reach the great locks at Pedro Miguel, which marks the beginning of the descent from the top level of the canal to the Pacific. The first craft to enter will be the great steam dredges whose work is to clear and deepen the channel.

Partial Navigation.
The presence of small craft in portions of the canal, however, does not as yet mean ocean to ocean navigation. This will be first possible when each link in the canal has a sufficient depth of water and all the locks are working.

In the intermediate stage navigation may be effected in local links of the canal and to some degree may be extended from length to length along the whole waterway.

Today's event served to demonstrate the nearness of the canal to the operating state. It also formally brought to a close the work of the central division in the cut, for the dredging operations which are to succeed the steam shovel work will be under a different organization.

Special Demonstration

And Sale On GREAT MAJESTIC RANGES

ONE WEEK
ONLY

:- OCTOBER 13th to 18th :-

ONE WEEK
ONLY

SAVE $8.00

As a special inducement during our demonstration week only, with every MAJESTIC RANGE sold (prices always the same) we will give free one handsome set of ware as illustrated here.

Every piece of this ware is the best of its kind. Not a piece that is not needed in every kitchen. It cannot possibly be bought for less than $8.00. This ware is on exhibition at our store. DON'T FAIL TO SEE IT.

SPECIAL

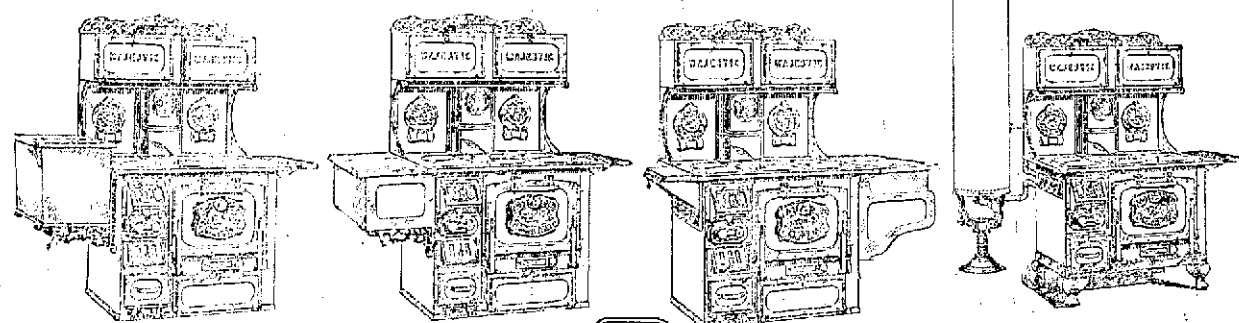

All during this week a special demonstrator direct from the MAJESTIC FACTORY will be glad to show you "ALL ABOUT RANGES"—SHOW YOU why the MAJESTIC is the best range on earth at any price.

Come, If You Intend To Buy or Not

Education lies in knowing things—Know why the oven of a range is heated—Know how the water is heated—How the top is heated—WHY the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel—KNOW how a range is made inside and outside. This education may serve you in the future. DON'T OVERLOOK a chance to KNOW THINGS shown by one who knows. COME.

Which Shall It Be?

Do you intend to continue laboring, burning valuable fuel and destroying high-priced food with that old worn-out cook stove?

You KNOW that old stove eats up a lot of fuel each year.

You KNOW you have trouble in getting it to bake just right, in fact, spoil a batch of bread every once in a while—you know it costs considerable for yearly repairs.

Stop and think and figure.

Wouldn't it pay you to buy a good range—a range with a reputation—

The Great Majestic Malleable and Charcoal Iron Range?

You make no mistake in buying the GREAT MAJESTIC—it's the range with THE REPUTATION—ask your neighbors. Then, too, it's made just right and of the right kind of material—MALLEABLE AND CHARCOAL IRON—riveted together practically air tight—lined with pure asbestos board—parts being malleable can't break—has a movable reservoir and an oven that don't warp—that's why the MAJESTIC uses so little fuel, bakes just right every day in the year (browns bread just right all over without turning), heats 15 gallons of water while breakfast is cooking—properly handled lasts a lifetime, and costs practically nothing for repairs.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a lifetime "unsight unseen;" you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store during demonstration week, see the GREAT MAJESTIC—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the MAJESTIC is 300% stronger than other rangest where most ranges are weakest.

Don't Overlook the Date. This is a Special Invitation to You and Your Friends and Neighbors.

THE OLD-FASHIONED GIRL.

Backward, turn backward, oh time, in thy flight.
Give us a girl whose skirts are not tight.
Give us a girl whose charms, many or few,
Are not all exposed by too much peek-a-bow.
Give us a girl, no matter what age,
Who won't use the streets as a yu-deville stage.
Give us a girl not too sharply in view;
Dress her in skirts that the sun can't shine through.

The Diary of the Bonehead.
"You'd better spruce up a bit," said my wife as I left home this morning. "You are trying to hold down a pretty good job now and appearance is everything. It is time you were sending that old suit to the Salvation Army home. You ought to have some style about you. A sleek can't get ahead in the business any more. Change your make-up and be quick about it."

I knocked off early today and blew into a haberdashery's to begin the transformation. I told the clerk that I wanted to crawl inside of a mink coat that would make Beau Brummel turn green with envy.

He sicked a red tie and a striped shirt onto me and a green hat with the bow behind and the gentlemanly artist back in the clothing department slipped me into a checked suit that fit as snugly as the first mortgage on an installment-plan house.

Gray spats and patent leather shoes completed the disguise and I felt quite proud of myself as I approached my own vine and fig tree.

"Where did you annex the musical comedy costume?" asked friend wife as soon as she had recovered her breath. "Hush! some show gone broke or are you trying to break into the asylum so as to shirk your family cares? You look like the dream of a rarebit hunk. Do you want your employers to think you are retreating in a headwind? Get those passionate togs off. I will go down and buy you a suit and hat tomorrow."

Moral: You can't please 'em.

How to Become a Story Writer.
There is good money in writing short stories for the magazines—good money for the federal government. For you must begin by writing about fourteen bushels of two-cent stamps. That is the first step in becoming a successful story writer. The rest is easy. All you have to do is to get an idea and then write a breezy, breezy story around it. There are various ways of capturing elusive ideas.

The most practical is the personal experience way. You can go out in the street and run over an automobile, be bumped by an automobile, either one is liable to suggest something romantic. Perhaps the ice wagon driver had a pretty daughter and she may nurse you back to health and you may find an affinity riding in the auto which bumps you.

After you have your short story all written, all you have got to do is to sell it. That's where Uncle Sam comes to your assistance. He carries your story about the country several years at two cents a trip with a two-cent stamp inclosed for each return trip. It is very simple. After you sell your story to all the magazines, start it all over again. On the third or fourth round some editor may accept it.

You are then twenty-six years old and the story has been written five years. When you reach the age of fifty, your story will be paid for and when you are ninety-five, if you are very lucky, you will see your story in print and your grandchildren will read it to you.

Some short story writers have accumulated great wealth. We know one personally who has even risen to the height of owning two pairs of suspenders. Of course all cannot be as successful as he has been, as this is an exceptional case, but there is room for all and no one should become discouraged before reaching three-score and ten years. The rejection slips you receive during the years your story is going the rounds can be combined into a very pretty wall paper pattern.

We will answer the inevitable question bequeathed the gentle reader has time to ask it. Yes, we have had one going to New York and back once a week since 1887.

HOPE TO COMPLETE SECOND PIER TODAY

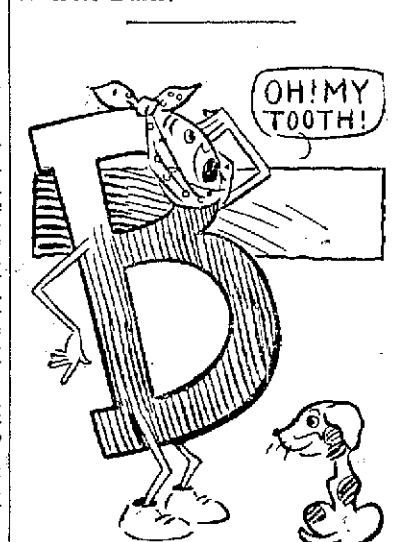

Pouring of Concrete in One Nearest West Bank Began This Morning—Work on Abutment.

Early this morning the workmen of the Gould Construction company began pouring concrete into pier No. 1 of the Milwaukee street bridge, the one nearest the west bank, and it is expected that this portion of the work will be completed by tonight. The sheeting will be removed beginning tomorrow and work on pier No. 2, the last of the series, will be started next Monday. As soon as the form for the first arch can be continued down to pier No. 1 the pouring of concrete into it will begin.

In the short time of an hour and forty-five minutes the derrick that has been at work on pier No. 2 yesterday moved from the false work that supported it to the east bank where it will start excavation for an abutment as soon as nine piles for false work have been driven. This will not be later than tomorrow.

Another shed for the storage of cement has been constructed. In anticipation of the great amount of gravel needed for casting the first arch, the precaution has been taken to store a large amount of it near the concrete mixer.

What occupation?

THE CALIOPE

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slawash."

The callopie is the Caruso of musical instruments. On a calm day it can be heard ten miles.

Callopies are not used in Grand Opera, however, but are confined to circuses and steamboats. Every circus has a callopie attached to its parade in order to scare away thunder showers, while most of the Mississippi river excursion steamers are armed with large and furious spectemans.

A callopie is composed of a large number of steam whistles of various sizes so arranged that they form a musical instrument of three octaves.

The performer thumps out a tune on the key board and the faithful whistles perform it for him in a series of terrific and terrifying tocs.

At a distance of five miles especially over water the callopie is a sweet sounding instrument and gives real pleasure. As the instrument draws nearer the pleasure decreases.

A callopie at close range fills the ears with the sound of a great cacophony that are produced by a boiler shop with the muffer off.

The callopie would not be so bad if it could be kept in tune. The various whistles wander from their keys like pigs from the home pen. Once there was a callopie artist, but the Mississippi river who detected something wrong with his beloved machine. He examined it and worked with it and tried to fix it up a little with it and tried to fix it up a little shears and it still had a peculiar note melodious and made them seem course and cheap.

At last the expert discovered the trouble. That one note was in tune. Nobody knows why the callopie was invented, but it is thought that the ancient Greeks used them to repel besiegers from their city walls. River traffic in the United States was in a highly flourishing condition half a century ago. Then someone invented the callopie. Inside of twenty-five years the steamer had almost disappeared from our rivers.

However, the callopie can be made highly useful. If it will be domesticated and put on the stump during our political campaigns it will serve with the same great purpose. It will tell as much truth as most political orators and it will make no reckless promises which may later involve the party in deep and mucky morasses of defeat.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE AT LUTHERAN CONFERENCE

Large delegations from Whitewater, Edgerton, Deerfield, Orfordville, Stoughton, Capron, and Lee, Illinois, are expected to attend the annual convention of the Young People's Societies of the Norwegian Synod Lutheran churches for the southern district of Wisconsin to be held at the Norwegian Lutheran church in this city on October 24, 25 and 26. The principal entertainment feature of the program is a sacred concert to be given on Sunday afternoon, October 25, in the auditorium of the Congregational church in which the choirs of all the churches represented will combine in a chorus of one-hundred voices. The Rev. W. A. Johnson, former pastor of the local church will direct the chorus, and Miss Melvia Nelson of Beloit will be organist. Miss Lillian Rutlin of Deerfield, a soprano soloist, rapidly growing in favor as a concert singer, has been engaged for the occasion. The concert will be open to the public and no admission will be charged.

Collecting a Crowd.
"I don't know what to do to collect a crowd," said the street salesman. "My old methods are all getting too familiar." "Nothing is easier," replied Mr. Chuggins. "If you want to collect a crowd simply pretend that your automobile is broken and that you are going to try to fix it."

FIVE MINUTES! STOMACH MISERY GONE STOP STARVING!—TRY PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Ends Indigestion, Heartburn, Gases, Nausea and Dyspepsia—Regulates your Digestion.

When your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headache, aches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store. These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your

SENNETT IS NAMED K. C. GRAND KNIGHT

Carroll Council Holds Annual Election of Officers at Meeting Last Night.

George Sennett was elected grand knight of Carroll Council, Knights of Columbus, at the meeting held at the lodge rooms last evening. Other officers were named as follows: John J. Joyce, D. G. K.; James C. Morris, recording secretary; Edward Madden, chancellor; William McCue, financial secretary; T. J. Birmingham, treasurer; William O'Brien, advocate; John Doran, warden; J. C. Viney, inside guard; and Joseph Denning, trustee.

The Knights also talked over plans in regard to the celebration of Landing day, which will be marked here by the concert of the Paulist choristers of Chicago who appear at the Myers theatre Monday evening under the auspices of the lodge.

CHORISTERS WHO WENT TO EUROPE COMING HOME.

The Board of Directors, by special arrangement, have agreed to present these Choristers who marched through Europe a year ago bearing the highest honors of the French Academy. Small boys who astonished France and Italy with High C's will come to a concert which will include excerpts of their European programs. Among the interesting features which some of our readers may remember was the the Great Republic for their remarkable achievements. The conductor was formerly declared decorated with the Palms of the French Academy and International Trophies of Royal Sevres were presented to the society. The choristers were then invited to sing in the Great Salle de Petes. The broadening effect of such experiences is naturally noticeable in their present style of work and it will be interesting for Janesville residents to hear what Europe so enthusiastically applauded. This organization appears at the Myers theatre on Monday evening under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

A HAPPY CHILD IN JUST A FEW HOURS

When cross, constipated or if feverish give "California Syrup of Figs" then don't Worry.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember a gentle "inside cleanser" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Give the Little Ones All the Pasteurized Milk They Want

Encourage the children to drink milk if you would have them grow up healthful and strong.

Don't give them tea and don't give them coffee. Give them milk, the beverage and food Nature intended them to use.

ASK FOR INCREASED FUNDS FOR LIBRARY

Appropriation of $50,000 Called For By Board of Directors—Heavy Repair Expense.

An increase in the appropriation for the support of the Janesville public library from $4,500, last year's figure, to $5,000 has been requested from the City Council by the Board of Directors of the library. The board, which held its last meeting on Friday of last week, drew up a report for submission to the Council with the report of the librarian for the year. In this they state that the books in the holding boiler have had to be entirely replaced in order to render it safe for use at a cost of $200. On July 1 they had on hand a great deal less than one-half of their stock. No other business came up at the recent meeting other than the allowance of the usual service bills and salaries.

TRAINING SCHOOL NOTES.

The seniors have decided to buy a ring instead of pins, also, and the class colors to be blue and gold, as the class flower, yellow tea rose.

So many questions have been sent in that some of them will doubtless be answered in this column and some by correspondence.

Clark's "How to Teach Reading in the Public School" has been added to the library. The professional books now make a long list.

Friday the principal visited the school taught by Ruth Hemmingsway and gave a talk to the mothers and the children.

This is the seventh week of this year's session. The quarter closes on October 31. The teachers will attend the state convention in Milwaukee the first week in November.

The principal is receiving calls for evening lectures in connection with the school and without the stereopticon slides. Friday, Oct. 17, is now scheduled.

How many rural teachers realize that in certain subjects according to the manual, the seventh, eighth and fifth and sixth grade classes are to be combined? The seventh and eighth grades are together called the "A" class and the other the "B" class. This means of course a reduction in the number of classes, but judging from observation and experience, there are many rural teachers in Rock county who do not understand this plan projected by inspectors.

Principal Lowth will speak in Edith Cooper's school next week on "Country Life and the Country School."

A teacher must be master in her own school if she is to reach her own and the children's respect.

Some teachers tolerate a disobedient spirit and disobedient acts which do not make for good citizenship. First of all and above all the children must be taught to mind. That is fundamental.

A picnic is planned for the fore part of next week.

In teaching writing, emphasis should be placed upon the free-arm muscular movement, and this cannot be secured without intelligent and carefully directed drill exercises.

Use the index to the manual. It is surprising what a large number of usable references are found there. The New Standard Dictionary has recently been added to the list of reference books. This dictionary is just off the press and is a thoroughly reliable and useful book.

Rural teachers should aim to cultivate self-reliance in their pupils. It is an indispensable quality in fighting the battles of life. Independent work in the recitation is of the utmost importance.

Can there be any folly greater than to erect expensive school buildings, fill them with children who are the nation's most precious possession, put them in charge of high salaried teachers and then hamper the work by inferior text books?—Kennebun.

W. E. Bliss of the American Book company, visited the training school on Wednesday.

How many rural teachers in Rock county will attend the meeting of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association in Milwaukee, Nov. 17 and 18?

The students' attitude toward what is presented is more significant than the method by which it is presented. J. of E.

Education that does not make a child more efficient out of school is mighty poor education.

Ruby Coon of Battle Creek, Mich., and Minnie Godfrey and Alta Leach of Walworth, Wis., were recent callers at the training school.

A teacher's reading is really the best gauge of her devotion and wisdom.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, Oct. 10.—The auction at Frank Bradford's Thursday afternoon, was well attended. Mr. and Mrs. Bradford and family will soon move to their new home in Janesville.

The Ladies' Aid of the Shopiere, M. E. church will hold their annual harvest supper at the church, Friday evening, Oct. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kellogg of Janesville, visited their daughter, Mrs. George Howard over Sunday.

Mrs. John Graham returned home from the Janesville hospital Friday.

Miss Belle McDonald of Janesville, spent the week end visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Waite and families, attended the farmers' picnic at the county farm Saturday.

The L. M. E. and Grangers will hold a dance at the Grange hall, Friday evening, Oct. 10.

Hugh Conway spent the past week at the home of his brother at Troy Center.

Flowers Used as Food.

It is not a matter of common knowledge that in a great many countries nearly all the flowers are used as articles of food. We sometimes use nasturtiums in salads, but we would hardly think of growing lilies for the mere purpose of boiling them down to make a dish resembling spinach.

Fourth Quarter—Lesson 11, Numbers 12, October 12, 1913.

JEALOUSY AND ENVY PUNISHED. (The Story.)

It is a marvel of literature, the fidelity with which the Bible pictures the faults of its heroes. No effort is made to create a series of ideally perfect characters. That is what would have happened if it had been a strictly human production. The Bible gives us its people exactly as they are, without effort to gloss or extenuate—Noah drunk—Abraham lying—Jacob deceiving—David an adulterer—Peter denying—Thomas doubting. So in this instance, Aaron has been his brother's mate from the very inception of the Exodus—has shared his honors and responsibilities. He is the very incarnation of ecclesiasticism—the embodiment of objective religion as it expresses itself in ritual. On the other hand, Miriam, Moses' sister, is the virgin Mary of the Old Testament—the foremost woman-organizer and voicing the praise of the people on the deliverance from Pharaoh and the Red Sea. But with terrible felicity, the Bible pictures the fall of the Virgin Mary into the arms of the estate. And the cause of it is so very human. They are envious and jealous. Miriam has been the "First lady of the land," and has liked being so. But Moses' wife has arrived in camp, and Miriam with a woman's quick intuition sees herself about to be displaced. The only way in which she can retain her laurels is to make herself equal to her brother Moses.

This she proceeds to do by disparaging him and exalting herself. Her claim is that God has spoken by her as well as by Moses. Aaron follows Miriam in her folly. That the younger brother should be prime seems always to have stuck in his craw. It has led him into trouble before. It is another instance where "base envy withers another's joy and hates the excellence it can not reach."

God nipped the insurrection in the bud. He dealt with it swiftly and directly. In unmistakable terms he established and confirmed Moses' primacy. He punished Miriam with the tell-tale disease of the Orient. Aaron goes far toward restoring himself in good graces of the reader by the promptness with which he shares his sister's guilt and cries to the very brother of whom he had been so jealous. "Lay not the sin upon us wherein we have done foolishly!" Like a mediator he pleads for his sister. The Bible does not afford finer illustration of contrition, confession, and supplication than that of Aaron and Miriam. Their hearts were broken for and from their sin. They did not hesitate to offer the honorable amendment to Moses and thus, as far as possible, make restitution. The joy and blessedness of those whose sins are forgiven has bright example in this instance.

THE TEACHERS' LANTERN.

Nothing appeals so to the universal human heart as the age-old allegories of virtue in combat with evil, typified in giant or dragon. These are favorite themes of genius for pen, pencil, or chisel. They are immensely popular, and for teaching purposes are unsurpassed. But it remains for the Bible to concretize them all in one—stripped of more artistic and rhetorical embellishments, the human soul is pictured in mortal combat with all its own devilish and deadly propensities. The fight is to a finish! It is the real contest of which all others are mere figures. Immortal destiny of the soul hangs upon the result! The talk of crowns and wreaths to the victor is mere rhetoric. The real reward is the fixity of character in a righteousness which invincibly chooses the good, the true, the divine! This intense and memorable picture should be the care of ankle-deep notions of sin current in our day. The sin of sin is that it is done against God—his goodness and love! It is the deliberate crossing of his will or refusal to come up to his standard as expressed in his law. How differently God looks upon sin finds expression in his dealing with this concrete case. To the mind of God it was no trivial lapse to be condoned and easily cured. The penalty visited was swift and terrible. The segregation of Miriam for 7 days was in itself significant. If she had suffered some insult she would naturally retire from the public eye. So, in view of her own immoral act, she may well retreat and reflect. Some compunctions today would suggest reflection in solitude. This paragraph contains one of the characteristic and wonderful parenthetical exclamations of the Bible. "Now the man Moses was meek above all the men who were upon the face of the earth." It is the only time in which Moses is called meek. It seems to have no connection with what precedes or follows. Moses was really a mighty, passionate, imperious man. But he had obtained what Raskin calls the greatest possession—namely, self-possession! He had lost the passion for revenge. He no longer resented a personal indignity. The motive of this self-control was religious. It was exorcised toward God. Here is no effeminacy, but really superlative heroism!

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEVOTIONAL SERVICE

October 12, 1913 1 Corinthians 13:1-13 Favorite Verses (V) in the Epistles (Honorary Members' Meeting)

Love is the greatest thing in the world. In comparison to it, mere verbal eloquence is an empty clang. Its power is greater than that which removes mere physical obstruction, although they be mountainous. Without love, charity is vain and without love resolves itself into mere fanaticism. Love eliminates the personal element from the equation. Pride and selfishness are impossible. It has superb staying qualities. It outlives prophecy, faith and hope. Love is the greatest thing in the world!

S. T. LOCKWOOD DIES IN CALIFORNIA THIS SUMMER

Reports received in this city recently telling of the death of S. T. Lockwood, a resident of this city in the sixties who passed away in the western part of California during the summer months. Mr. Lockwood was for many years superintendent of the city schools here, and was a prominent business man. During the year 1884, he took the boys of the high school class of '64 to the Civil War with him, and they fought with him to the end of the war. He was a member of Company A, 40th Regiment. He came here in 1862, and remained until after the war. He was well past seventy years when he died.

BACKACHE A WARNING YOU SHOULD HEED

It is One of Nature's First Signs of Kidney Troubles, if Neglected, Serious Diseases May Follow.

When the kidneys are clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you.

Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders; have attacks of lumbago, or rheumatism; become nervous, tired and feel all worn out; puffy swellings show under the eyes, or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's Disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, when a little Croxone now will quickly and surely end all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for all such troubles than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is practically impossible to take it without results.

An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to end the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

CRUEL TASKMASTERS.

RELAX. It seems to me there is no commandment this generation needs more keenly than that.

Relax. The world is not resting on your shoulders as you appear to think. No cataclysm will occur if you are not tense every moment. Yesterday I looked around a dining room in which eighteen or twenty people were eating. Dinner time is a most propitious moment for relaxation. Moreover physicians tell us that poisons which retard digestion are produced by not relaxing while eating. And yet it was evident from their positions, voices and manners, that almost every one of those people was more or less tense. I noticed one woman's hands lying clenched in her lap. A man drummed nervously on the table with his napkin ring. Another man, who was alone, frowned at his food with that peculiar frown which indicates intense mental concentration. A young girl consulted her wrist watch impatiently when the waitress was a bit slow with the roast. No, she wasn't catching a train, she explained, but she did hate such slow service; it made her nervous.

Look around a trolley car and see how many of its occupants show tension in their attitude. Legs tightly crossed, hands clenched or nervously clasped together, brows knit, lips compressed, everywhere you see these signs of the times. And yet with most of these people it is an ideal moment for relaxation. A moment between activities, a moment when there is no pressure or demand of any kind upon them, and when they might loosen the tension on both mind and muscles.

Many people do not relax even in sleep. Instead of relaxing mind and body in preparation for sleep, they allow themselves to fall asleep with their minds at high tension and their bodies in cramped, tense attitudes, and then wonder why they do not feel more rested in the morning. "I had a terrible experience this afternoon," a man said to me once. "I had to wait in an oculist's office two hours without one thing to do. I had belladonna in my eyes so I couldn't read and I had to sit there and wait. I thought I should go insane the last half hour. I was as tired when I got home as if I had done a hard day's work."

Plainly this man had been tense every moment of those two hours. "Now if he had taken an easy position, closed his eyes, relaxed his mind and let himself go, instead of holding himself taut, these two hours might have been a bath of repose and renewing instead of a 'terrible experience'."

A doctor told me that one of his patients has not slept more than two hours a night for years, and yet is able to keep cheerful and efficient. "How can she?" I asked. "Because, though she doesn't sleep but two hours, she rests the other six," he explained. "He who will relax when he may can be more efficiently tense when he must."

So don't be such a hard taskmaster to those nerves and muscles of yours. You won't get so much out of them that way. Give them liberty whenever you can, and they will repay you manifold for your indulgence.

HEART & HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen and have been keeping company with a young man who is six years my senior. He seems to be very much interested in me and goes with no one else. But he is real jealous of me. He seems to think I should not talk to nor speak to any other young man while with him or even when he isn't with me. What shall I do with him? I think well enough of him and enjoy his company very much except when he is angry. At present we are on the outs. Shall I make up with him or shall I let him go?

LOVESOME DESS.

It isn't wise for a girl to give up all her boy friends for the sake of one of them, and it is a selfish man who expects it. I think I would continue to be friendly with this young man, but would also continue friendly with the other young men and boys I know, whether he likes it or not. If he is of such a jealous disposition that he wants to make you unhappy all the time, better give him up entirely.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of fifteen and my mother don't want me to have anything to do with men. Do you think she is right?

(2) Every man in the place is nice and polite to me when I pass them. When my sister goes with me she doesn't want me to speak to them. If they say "Good evening," and I say "Good evening" back, it makes her mad at me. She is fourteen. Who do you think is right?

BROWN EYES.

(1) I think your mother is right, my dear. You are too young to have beaux.

(2) I am glad to hear that the men treat you nicely. It is what they should do. I see no harm in returning a friendly "Good evening." You should be a better judge than your younger sister.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it right to accept a present from a boy friend to whom you are not engaged?

(2) Is it nice to correspond with four young men at once?

(3) Will you kindly tell me what kind of a dress and what color would be most becoming to a girl with dark brown hair, brown eyes and drab complexion? For new beginnings are the life of perseverance.—E. B. Pusey.

FAMOUS HOTEL DISHES.

Codfish Bonnemfemme.—Butter a long baking dish and place a half of a codfish, skin side down, in the dish, surround with potato balls, season with salt and pepper and put butter on top of the fish. Put into the oven to bake, baste frequently, cooking about fifteen minutes. Just before taking out, sprinkle with finely chopped parsley; baste once more and leave a few minutes until a beautiful brown color.

Almond Puddings.—Take sixteen eggs, and reserve the whites of eight. Take a pound of almonds, two ounces of which are bitter, one pound of powdered sugar and a little orange flower water. Blanch and chop the almonds, beat the eggs, then add the sugar gently and the chopped almonds; add the orange flower water and beat for a full hour. Bake in small round dishes, cover with buttered paper, to keep them from getting too brown at the last.

Raspberries à la Astor.—Take two cups of raspberries, add a little lemon juice and powdered sugar in small proportions and a pinch of nutmeg. Mix thoroughly with whipped cream, flavor with maraschino. Sprinkle with pistachio nuts and place on ice for two hours before serving.

Squabs Mirabeau.—Prepare squabs as for roasting; boil five minutes in boiling broth and then remove them. Split down the back without breaking the breast bone. Season with salt and pepper, cover with egg and bread crumbs, and cook in butter for fifteen minutes. Garnish with small onions and potatoes browned in butter.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY MRS. ADICE CYNTHIA KIRK

BUYING POWER COOK'S ASSET

A recent article well illustrated in the newspaper showed the difference between the girl with training in buying and knowing food values and the woman who took the same amount of money and did not have an equivalent in food.

Thinking housekeepers are learning along with other things that greater food value is more frequent with the so-called cheaper cuts of meat. Lian, a portentious steak which few families can afford very often and many not at all.

They are learning from their butcher just where these cuts are and how best to cook them to get not only the extreme fine flavor but the nutritive elements in those cuts of meats. It may be from the shoulder, or the neck, the rump or the shin. Every housekeeper, whether she has to cook it or not, should know the food elements contained in such meats so her family is properly nourished.

For instance, many wealthy people who have servants buy these cheaper cuts of meats for the servants to eat and they themselves live on choice roasts and portentious steaks. They do not know and many of them are not even willing to learn that their own family is not half as well nourished and fed as the help which is furnished with the meat proper in price but richer by far in nutrition. Roasts, chops and steaks are quick and easy to prepare and it is very easy to cultivate the taste for the flavor, but that is not the whole of life. These other meats require longer, slower cooking to get the flavor, but they are rich in albumen and flavor and when well cooked are always liked.

Supreme Stew of Veal.

Material.—Knuckle of veal, six cloves, one dozen small onions, one-half bay leaf, one tablespoonful of lemon juice of vinegar, two level teaspoonfuls of salt, pepper, potato balls or small potatoes, dumplings, one quart boiling water, one pound butter, three tablespoonfuls flour.

Utensils.—Kettle with close fitting cover, paring knife, measuring spoon.

Directions.—Have the butcher remove the bone from the knuckle of veal, which may be used for stock, and roll and tie up the solid piece of meat. Put the meat into the hot water with the boiling water, simmer very gently two hours. Rub butter and flour together, thin with a little cold liquid and add to the meat in the kettle; stir until it thickens. Now

To cut hard boiled eggs in smooth slices dip the knife in water.

If you put your biscuits in the ice box for a few hours before baking them they will be much lighter than if baked at once.

Egg stains on silk can usually be removed by rubbing with ordinary table salt.

If a calendar seems too pretty to destroy, paste it on a piece of sandpaper over the calendar pad and use it as a match scratcher.

THE TABLE.

Scotch Broth.—One pound of neck of mutton, half a pound of barley, one large carrot, one small turnip, one small cabbage, two onions, one tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley, three and a half quarts of water or stock, salt and pepper. Put the barley, onion and water into a large saucepan or stock pot; let them boil for half an hour; then add the carrot, turnip, cabbage, and onions, cut up very finely, with one quart of stock. Let all boil for one and a half hours, add the chopped parsley, enough salt and pepper to season nicely then serve.

Lemon Sherbet.—Dissolve one heaping tablespoonful of boiling water. Mix one pint of sugar, the dissolved gelatine, one quart of water and the strained juice of six lemons together, and freeze.

Potato Croquettes.—Peel and cut in quarters, ten or more potatoes, boil till tender, drain and mash them thoroughly. Rub them through a sieve, put them back into a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of hot milk, one tablespoonful of butter, two yolks of eggs, salt, pepper and paprika. Set the saucepan over the fire and stir well, spread on a dish to cool. When cold, shape into meat croquettes, roll in bread crumbs, brush each over with beaten egg, then toss again in crumbs, and fry a golden brown color, in smoking hot fat. Drain, dip up on a folded napkin, garnish with fried parsley, and serve hot.

Port Wine Jelly.—Put into a saucepan, three heaping tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatine, two cupfuls of water, juice of two lemons, six tablespoonfuls of sugar, whites and shells of two eggs, bay leaf, blade of mace and three cloves. Whisk all together until it boils, allow to boil well up. Take out the fire, and let stand five minutes, strain through a hot jelly bag. Then add two cupfuls of hot port wine. Pour into a wet mold and let stand till firm. Turn out and serve with whipped and sweetened cream.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Simply caring for the comforts of the home is not household management. In addition to caring for the home it means the skillful, economical running of the entire establishment. Now when I use the word establishment it applies to the management of the small as to the large home. In both cases an allowance is made for the running of the home.

It is claimed that the untidiness of many young women is due to their domestic inharmonious, and not infrequently it is in something far more serious than inharmonious.

The high schools are taking up the work of training young girls in the art of housekeeping. This is commendable, but what about the young girls that never see the inside of a high school? It is a historical fact that girls do grow up without ever attending high school, not to mention their going to have the rudiments of house-making taught them? At home, you say? How many girls that are at home—girls from the age of ten to twenty—are taught house-making by their mothers—the women who know how? How many young girls are being taught how to properly cook a steak? Is yours?

Can your daughter bake bread or make a pie? Can she do the family wash? Can she sew? And if not why not?

If she is not able to do housework how is she going to run the home that she will—in the natural order of events—some day preside over? How is she going to be the helpmate of the young man she marries? Is your failure now, to do your duty by your daughter going to be the cause of sorrow to her in the years that lie ahead of her?

Your mother taught you to cook? Of course she did. When you were growing up it was the acknowledged thing for every young girl to be a good housekeeper. Nowadays it seems to be a thing to avoid.

There is not a mother in the universe rich or poor that should not teach her daughter to be a housekeeper. If your girl will marry a man that can afford to have help in his home the responsibility of the management of that home rests upon your daughter, who as the mistress should know just how much it takes to maintain her own home; who as its mistress should be able to plan menus and see that there is no unnecessary waste. Can she do all this if she has had no training along these lines? We might as well ask if a young man is a good mechanic who all his life has kept books as a means of gaining a livelihood.

Are the mothers of today raising their daughters as well as they were raised? Mother reader, how are you raising YOUR daughter?

Rub together two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; add a pint of strained tomato and stir until boiling. Now add one teaspoonful of salt, paprika and pour this sauce over the rolls, and bake in a moderate oven until tender. Remove cover and brown.

Steak and Vegetable au Casserole.

Materials.—Round steak, two pounds; turnip, one; carrot, one; potato, one; flour, one tablespoonful; liver-oiled corn, one-half pint; celery seed, one-fourth teaspoonful; chopped parsley, two tablespoonfuls; kitchen bouquet, one teaspoonful; salt, one teaspoonful; boiling stock or water, one and one-half pints; pepper.

Utensils.—Casserole dish, paring knife, steel spider, measuring cup, tablespoonful and vegetable cutter.

Directions.—Peel the onions and cut the vegetables into fancy shapes. Put a thin layer of these into the bottom of the casserole dish. Put the spider over the fire. When very hot throw in the steak, cut in inch squares and sear over very quickly, shaking the flour over the meat while searing. Put the meat over the vegetables and the remaining vegetables and seasonings over the top and the boiling water or stock. Cover and bake in a very moderate oven one and a half or more hours. Always serve in the dish in which it is cooked.

When the winds blow wild from the Arctic strand, where the snow is piled on the frozen land, then we soon forget how we used to wheeze, in the days of sweat, for an ice-cold breeze. Oh, we don't look back to that misty time, when we cried, "Alack, for some snow and rain!"

When the winds come through from the Arctic shore, let us smile a few, and then smile some more! If some ancient grinch by the chimneyplace should release an "ouch!" with a gloomy face, and express a wish for a climate hot, let us break a dish on his dome of thought. Let us swat him thrice with the old arm chair, let us pile some ice on his silvered hair. When the north winds hiss, let us say: "Oh, crickets! Such a day as this, though it bust the pipes, though it bring some grief with its pesky sleet, is a his relief after August heat!" Let us all be gay while we're here on earth; let us laugh and play with abounding mirth, though the winds be warm or the winds be still, though the days bring storm, though the day be still.

Where There's A Will

She got off the table, still smiling, and sauntered to the pantry door, watching him over her shoulder.

My heart was skipping every second beat by that time, and Miss Julia stood by the pantry door, her head back and her eyes almost closed, enjoying every minute of it. If Arabella hadn't made a diversion just then I think I'd have fainted.

She'd pulled the newspaper and the lights off the table and was running around the room with them, one leg in her mouth.

"Stop it, Arabella!" said Miss Julia, and took the lights from her. "Yours?" she asked, with her eyebrows raised.

"No—yes," I answered.

"I'd never suspect you of them!" she remarked.

Mr. Sam and his wife came in at that moment. Mr. Sam carrying a bottle of wine for the shelter-house, wrapped in paper, and two cans of something or other. He was too busy trying to make the bottle look like something else—which a good many people have tried and failed at—to notice what Miss Summers was doing, and she had Miss Cobb's protectors stuffed in her muff and was standing very dignified in front of the fire by the time they'd shaken off the snow.

"Good morning!" she said.

"Morning!" said Mr. Sam, hanging up his overcoat with one hand, and trying to put the bottle in one of his pockets with the other. Mrs. Sam didn't look at her.

"Good morning, Mrs. Van Alstyne!" Miss Summers almost threw it at her. "I spoke to you before; I guess you didn't hear me."

"Oh, yes, I heard you," answered Mrs. Sam, and turned her back on her. Give me a little light-haired woman for sheer devilishness!

I'd expected to see Miss Summers fly to pieces with rage, but she stared at Mrs. Sam's back, and after a minute she laughed.

"I see!" she remarked slowly. "You're the sister, aren't you?"

Mr. Sam had given up trying to hide the bottle and now he set it on the floor with a thump and came over to the fire.

"It's—you see, the situation is embarrassing," he began. "Under the circumstances, don't you think it would be—er—better form if—er—under the circumstances—"

"I am not going to leave, if that is what you are about to suggest," she said. "I've been trying to see Dicky Carter the last ten days, and I'll stay here until I see him. I'll stay right here, and I'll have what's coming to me or I'll know the reason why. Don't forget for a minute that I know why Mr. Pierce is here, and that I can spoil the little game by calling the extra ace, if I want to."

When she was safely gone I brought Mr. Dick out to the fire. His sister would not speak to him.

Mike went to Mr. Pierce that day and asked for a raise of salary. He did not get it. Perhaps as things have turned out, it was for the best, but it is strange to think how different things would have been if he'd been given it. He was sent up later, of course, for six months for malicious mischief, but by that time the damage was done.

CHAPTER X.

That was on a Saturday morning. It had stopped snowing and the sun was shining, although it was so cold that the snow blew like powder. By eleven o'clock every one who could walk had come to the springhouse.

About twelve o'clock Mr. Thornburn came in, and as he opened the door, in leaped Arabella. The women made a fuss over the creature and cuddled her, and when I tried to put her out everybody objected. So she stayed, and Miss Summers put her through a lot of tricks, while the men crowded around.

Mr. von Inwald and Miss Patty came, in just then and stood watching.

"And now," said Mr. von Inwald, "I propose, as a reward to Miss Arabella, a glass of this wonderful water. Minnie, a glass of water for Arabella!"

"She doesn't drink out of one of my glasses," I declared angrily. "It's one of my rules that dogs—"

"Tut!" said Mr. Thornburn. "What's good for man is good for beast. Besides, the little beggar's thirsty."

Well they made a great fuss about the creature's being thirsty, and so finally I got a painful of spring water and it drank until I thought it would burst. "I'm not vicious, as I say, but I wish it had."

Well, the dog finished and lay down by the fire, and everything seemed to go on as before.

"Just what is the record here?" the bishop asked. "I'm ordered eight glasses, but I find it more than a sufficiency."

"We had one man here once who could drink 25 at a time," I said, "but he was a German."

"He was a tank," Mr. Sam corrected grumpily. He was watching something on the floor—I couldn't see what.

"Consider," said Thornburn, standing and holding his glass to the light, "how we are at the mercy of this little spring! A convulsion in the bowels of the earth, and its health-giving properties may be changed to the direst poison. How do we know, you and I, some such change has not occurred overnight? Unlikely as it is, it's a possibility that, sitting here calmly, we may be sipping our death potion."

Some of the people actually put down their glasses and everybody began to look uneasy except Mr. Sam, who was still watching something I could not see. He suddenly straightened up and glanced at Miss Summers.

"Perhaps I'm mistaken," he said, "but I think there is something the matter with Arabella."

Everybody looked. Arabella was lying on her back, jerking and twitching and foaming at the mouth.

"She's been poisoned!" Miss Summers screamed, and fell on her knees beside her. "It's that wretched water!"

There was pretty nearly a riot in a minute. Everybody jumped up and stared at the dog, and everybody remembered the water he or she had just had, and coming on top of Mr. Thornburn's speech, it made them babbling lunatics.

Well, I did what I could. The worst of it was, I wasn't sure it wasn't the water. I thought possibly Mr. Pierce had made a mistake in what he had bought at the drug store, and although I don't as a rule drink it myself, I began to feel queer in the pit of my stomach.

Mr. Thornburn came over to the spring, and filling a glass, took it to the light, with every one watching anxiously. When he brought it back he stooped over the railing and whispered to me.

"When did you fix it?" he asked sternly.

"Last night," I answered. It was no time to beat about the bush.

"It's yellower than usual," he said. "I'm inclined to think something has gone wrong at the drug store, Minnie."

Mr. von Inwald was watching like the others, and now he came over and caught Mr. Thornburn by the arm.

"What do you think?" he asked nervously. "I—I have had three glasses of it!"

"Three!" shouted Senator Biggs, coming forward. "I've had eleven! I tell you, I've been feeling queer for 24 hours! I'm poisoned! That's what I am!"

He staggered out, with Mr. Biggs just behind him, and from that moment they were all demoralized. One by one they left to look for Doctor Barnes, or to get the white of egg, which somebody had suggested as an antidote.

I was alone, looking down at Arabella. Or rather, I thought I was alone, for there was a movement by one of the windows and Miss Patty came forward and knelt by the dog.

"Of all the absurdities!" she said. "Poor little thing! Minnie, I believe she's breathing!"

She put the dog's head in her lap, and the little beast opened its eyes and tried to wag its blue tail.

"Oh, Miss Patty, Miss Patty!" I exclaimed, and I got down beside her and cried on her shoulder, with her stroking my hand and calling me dearest! Me!

I was wiping my eyes when the door was thrown open and Mr. Pierce ran in. He had no hat on and his hair was powdered with snow. He stopped just inside the door and looked at Miss Patty.

"My God!" he exclaimed. "I thought you were poisoned!"

"I am all right," she assured him, "and little Arabella will be all right, too. She's had a convulsion, that's all—probably from overeating. As for the others—"

"Where is the—where is von Inwald?"

"He has gone to take the white of an egg," she replied rather haughtily.

He walked to the window and I saw him looking hard at something outside in the snow. When he walked back to the fire he was smiling, and he stooped over and poked Arabella with his finger.

"So that was it!" he said. "Full to the scuppers, poor little wretch! Minnie, I am hoist with my own petard, which in this case was a boomerang."

"Which is in English?" I asked.

"With the instinct of her sex, Arabella has unearthed what was meant to be buried forever. She had gorged herself into a convulsion on that rabbit I shot last night!"

They went to the house together, he carrying Arabella like a sick baby and Miss Patty, beside him. I went over and looked down into the spring, and it seemed to me it was darker than usual. It may have smiled stronger, but the edge had been taken off my nose, so to speak, by being there so long.

The only thing I could think of was to empty the spring and let the water come in plain. I could put a little sulphur in to give it color and flavor, and if it turned out that Mr. Pierce was right and that Arabella was only a glutton, I could put in the other things later.

I was carrying out my first pailful when Doctor Barnes came down the path and took the pail out of my hand.

"What are you doing?" he asked. "Making a slide?"

"No," I said bitterly. "I am watering the flowers."

"Good!" He was not a bit put out. "Let me help you." Inside, he put down the pail, and pulling me in, closed the door.

"Now forget it!" he commanded. "Just because a lot of damn fools see a dog in a fit and have one, too, is that any reason for your being scared wall-eyed and knock-kneed? Lord, I wish you could have seen them staggering into my office!"

"I saw enough," I said with a shiver. "That German, von Inwald, he went on, 'he's the limit. He accused us of poisoning him for reasons of state!'"

"Where are they now?"

"My dear girl," he answered, putting down his glass, "what has been pounded into me ever since I struck the place? The baths! I prescribe 'em all day and dream 'em all night. Where are the poisonees now? They are steaming, stewing, exuding in the hot rooms of the bath department—all of them, every one of them! In the hold and the hatches down!"

Just then somebody fell against the door and stumbled into the room. It was Tillie, as white as milk, and breathing in gasps.

"Quick!" she screamed, "Minnie, quick!"

"What is it?" I asked, jumping up. She'd fallen back against the door frame and stood with her hand clutching her heart.

"That dev—devil—Mike!" she panted. "He has turned on the steam in the men's bath and gone—gone away!"

"With people in the bath?" Doctor Barnes asked, slamming down the pail. Tillie nodded.

"Then why in creation don't they get out of the baths until we can shut off the steam?" I demanded, grabbing up my shawl. But Tillie shook her head in despair.

"They can't," she answered, "he's hid their clothes!"

The next thing I recall is running like mad up the walk with Doctor Barnes beside me, steadying me by the arm. I only spoke once that I remember and that was just as we got to the house.

"That settles it!" I panted, desperately. "It's all over!"

"Not a bit of it!" he said, shoving me up the steps and into the hall. "The old teakettle is just getting 'het up' a bit. By the gods and little fishes, just listen to it singing down there!"

The help was gathered in a crowd at the head of the bathhouse staircase, where a cloud of steam was coming up, and down below we could hear furious talking, and somebody shouting, "Mike! Mike!" in a voice that was choked with rage and steam.

"Clothes! Send us some clothes!" It was Mr. Sam calling. The rest was swallowed up in a fresh roaring, as if a steam pipe had given away. That settled the people below. With a burst of fury they swarmed up the stairs in their bath sheets, the bishop leading, and just behind him, talking as no gentleman should talk under any circumstances, Senator Biggs. The rest followed, their red faces shining through the steam—all of them murderous, holding their sheets around them with one hand, and waving the other in frenzy. It was awful.

DINNER STORIES.

"Oh, George!" breathed Janet in eager excitement, "did you tell father that you had saved up $500?"

"Yes, darling."

"And what did he say?"

"He said, 'Fine! You're just the man I'm looking for!'"

"Yes, yes; go on!"

"Lend it to me, will you?"

"We are going to have pie for dinner," said Bobby to the minister.

"Indeed!" laughed the clergyman, amused at the little boy's artlessness. "And what kind of pie, Bobby?"

"It's a new kind. Ma was talking this morning about pie bringing you to dinner so often, and pa said he didn't care what she thought, and ma said she'd make him eat humble pie before the day was over, and I suppose we're going to have it for dinner."

An impressionist artist was asked to dine at the house of a man who had bought one of his paintings. After the meal the host led his guest to the library where the picture had been hung and asked the artist if he was pleased with the effect.

"Have I hung it right?" the host anxiously asked.

"Well," replied the artist, putting his head on one side and thoughtfully studying the work, "it should hang in the other side up. I always have."

TRY RESINOL FREE FOR SKIN TROUBLE

It Stops Itching Instantly and Soon Heals the Worst Eruption.

The moment Resinol Ointment touches any itching skin, the itching stops and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap, it quickly clears away all trace of eczema, ringworm, pimples, blackheads, or other tormenting, unsightly eruption, leaving the skin clear and healthy.

Prove at our expense that Resinol will do this for you. Write today to Dept. 17-M, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you a liberal trial, by parcel post, with full directions for use.

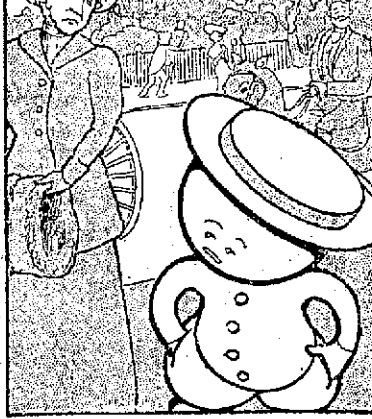

Resinol has been prescribed by doctors for 18 years. Sold by every druggist.

Cured Pimples and Blackheads.

W. B. Hackett, 629 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, writes: "I was bothered for several years by unsightly pimples on my face, as well as blackheads, which were a source of much discomfort and embarrassment. At last I decided to try Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. I am happy to say I am entirely rid of the eruptions, and my skin is clear of all disfigurements. I also find that Resinol works wonders when used to cure cold sores, etc."

"GETS-IT" For Corns Surely Gets Them!

It's the Corn Cure on a New Plan—Gets Every Corn Quick and Sure.

"If you're like me, and have tried nearly everything to get rid of corns and have still got them, just try the new, sure, quick, easy, painless way—the new plan thing!"

corn cure, "GETS-IT." Watch it get rid of that corn, wart, callus or bunion in a hurry. "GETS-IT" is as sure as time. It takes two seconds to apply—that's all. No bandages to stick and fuss over, no salves to make corns sore and turn true flesh raw and red, no plasters, no more knives and razors that may cause blood poison, no more digging at corns. Just the easiest thing in the world to use. Your corn days are over. "GETS-IT" is guaranteed. It is safe, never hurts healthy flesh.

Your druggist sells "GETS-IT," 25 cents per bottle, or direct if you wish, from E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"Talk About Your Corn-Getters, 'GETS-IT' Surely is the Real Thing!"
